What makes a good Historian?

To present my findings about a historical topic.

To use historical evidence to back up what I think.

To ask questions about the past and to interpret my findings.

To form my own opinions about what has happened in the past using a range of sources.

KNYPERSLEY FIRST SCHOOL

To research significant events and historical figures.

To develop the ability to think, reflect, debate, discuss and evaluate the past.

Our History Intention:
To develop children's experiences and understanding of History, inspiring and igniting their curiosity about the world and how it helps to shape the future.

To be able to place historical events in a chronological order.